The report, entitled 'Diversity Management, Discrimination and Ethnic Minorities in Europe: Clarifications, Critiques and Research Agendas' was presented as an occasional paper of the Centre for Ethnic and Urban Studies, Norrköping, in 2002, and served as the foundation for this book. Russia's record of racial discrimination is up for review by the UN Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. On Thursday 14th and Friday 15th January, the Committee will hear Russian officials and engage in a dialogue to monitor the Russian Federation's compliance with the UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination. "It is time for Russia end shameful state policies that harm the most vulnerable groups living in the country as well as counterproductive pieces of legislation. Racial stereotypes and consequent discrimination are a plague that Russia must eliminate" said SOVA Center director, Alexander Verkhovsky. Although issues of diversity and discrimination have been recognized internationally, the responses differ dramatically. Diversity Management and Discrimination: Immigrants and Ethnic Minorities in the EU examines racial discrimination and diversity in the workplace, and the development of diversity management in the USA and, more explicitly, the European Union (EU). The book brings together a range of literature into one concise volume in a readable format for readers new to the field of diversity and discrimination. As part of the Research in Migration and Ethnic Relations series, this book
