A warm and comprehensive child-centered approach to early childhood education. Who Am I in the Lives of Children? An Introduction to Early Childhood Education presents a constructivist approach to early childhood education (birth to grade 3) and care programs that is dedicated to the development of the whole child—physical, social, emotional, and intellectual. With its practical orientation; personal voice; appealing photographs, videos, authentic children’s classroom work; and engaging stories, it allows readers to visualize effective classroom practices. Aspiring educators are encouraged to learn about each child’s strengths, interests, and challenges. This understanding, coupled with contemporary, research-based information, inspires readers to support each child’s growth and learning in ways that are in harmony with who they are, rather than according to a predetermined plan. The Enhanced Pearson eText features embedded video and assessments. Improve mastery and retention with the Enhanced Pearson eText* The Enhanced...

Taking a child-centered approach and focusing on values and ethics, the authors present the foundation and the tools that pre-service teachers need to become the kind of teacher that can make a difference in a child's life. The book offers the following pedagogical tools to help accomplish this goal: "Reflection Boxes"—encourage reflective thinking. "Learning Outcomes"—relate to the NAEYC standard for the content covered in each chapter. "To Learn More"—This section includes suggestions for projects to help students learn more about the content in the chapter.

The past, early childhood education was somewhat informal. It was only evolving among family, households, and community members. But after the 20th century, this term was formalised and characterised as women started to join in outdoor works. Purpose of Early Childhood Education. Children who get proper care at an early age display wonderful performance in school. This leads towards a successful career, hence a well-to-do future. 13. Resilience. Early childhood educators and parents try to build elasticity in a child at an early age. Also, sending the child to an early childhood education centre creates a scope for a mom to work outdoors. This increases family income and benefits the state’s economy as a roundabout.
