Abstract

this small 16pp book, designed to replicate a needle-case, explores the contents of a sewing box that was inherited on the death of a family member. Pen and ink drawings are juxtaposed with short statements from the family who recall their memories of the sewing-box and its contents

The book combines ink-jet printing with typewritten text and rubber stamps; four of the edition includes fabric elements that are machine-stitched to the pages. Felt covers with button detail and fabric endpapers.
