Abstract

The goal of this thesis will be to conduct a survey of literature surrounding the Beowulf story and its many adaptations, specifically the ones relating to war and combat, for the purpose of determining how Beowulf adaptations reflect the increasingly complex nature of perceptions of and attitudes towards war throughout history. All too often, the martial aspects of Beowulf are dismissed as obvious and superficial, and scholars direct their efforts towards scouring the Beowulf story for more subtle subtext. However, the Beowulf story remains, at heart, a tale of soldiers and combat. This thesis will conduct a thorough investigation of Beowulf adaptations throughout history, from World War II to the Cold War (from both sides of the Iron Curtain) to modern adaptations that may yield insight into their creator's feelings towards Middle Eastern conflict. As the nature of war shifts from national, conventional combat to occupation and counter insurgency, the feelings regarding war of the countries in question change, and their Beowulf adaptations reflect those changes. What are these changes, and why is Beowulf so often chosen to convey messages about war?

us in relation to Vietnam. The truth of these words is beyond doubt, but the mission to which they call us is a most difficult one. Even when pressed by the demands of inner truth, men do not easily assume the task of opposing their government's policy, especially in time of war. Moreover, when the issues at hand seem as perplexing as they often do in the case of this dreadful conflict, we are always on the verge of being mesmerized by uncertainty; but we must move on. And some of us who have already begun to break the silence of the night have found that the calling to speak is often a vocation of agony, but we must speak. As a guest on InfoWars' War Room with Owen Shroyer today, intelligence expert Steve Pieczenik declared that the 2020 election was set up by Trump's people as a "sophisticated sting operation" to trap the Democrats and the Biden crime family in irrefutable criminal fraud. When that time comes, all the people of your nation whose names are written in God's book will be saved. Holman Christian Standard Bible At that time Michael the great prince who stands watch over your people will rise up. And there will be a time of distress such as never occurred since there was a nation until that time; and at that time your people, everyone who is found written in the book, will be rescued. King James 2000 Bible And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which stands for the children of your people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time your people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the. When Richard II came to power the government introduced a tax payment for each person who was over the age of fifteen. Then the tax was enforced two more times and each time the payment became even higher. This resulted in revolts, which spread all over Britain. The biggest revolt was led by Wat Tyler, John Ball and Jack Straw. People demanded more rights, they wanted to be equal to other people, they wanted to be allowed to buy and sell at all the markets, like other free men, they wanted taxes to be made lower, etc. The most part of the rebels were peasants. The revolt lasted for about four
