Abstract

Originally published in Contemporary Psychology: APA Review of Books, 1997, Vol 42(5), 435-436. Reviews the textbook, Lifespan Development: A Topical Approach (1996) by J. M. Jolley and M. L. Mitchell (see record 1995-98723-000). Jolley and Mitchell present serious competition to existing life span texts. The authors have made intelligent decisions about both what to include and how to organize it within their 14 topical chapters. Jolley and Mitchell have produced a worthwhile addition to the library of life span development textbooks. Their book is thoughtful, well organized, and written in an accessible style. It is good to know that a moderate-sized topical book finally is available for these courses. (PsycINFO Database Record (c) 2006 APA, all rights reserved)
