Paper Trail. "Timepieces", by Drusilla Modjeska. [review]

Date
2002-09

Author
Hooton, Joy

Metadata
Show full item record

Abstract
According to the back cover of "Timepieces", Drusilla Modjeska's latest collection of essays represents an attempt to follow the 'paper trail' of her own life, after 'nearly thirty years of nosing in other people's archives'. Readers who have enjoyed "Poppy" (1990), "The Orchard" (1994) and "Stravinsky's Lunch" (2000) will find much to intrigue them in Part 1 of this collection, which is largely a series of intimate glimpses into her development as a writer.

URI
http://hdl.handle.net/2328/1608

Collections
No 244 - September 2002
Flinders Open Access Research

Contribute to paper-trail-gem/paper_trail development by creating an account on GitHub. Many aspects of PaperTrail are configurable for individual models; typically this is achieved by passing options to the has_paper_trail method within a given model. Some aspects of PaperTrail are configured globally for all models. These settings are assigned directly on the PaperTrail.config object. Drusilla Modjeska is possibly one of our most acclaimed writers. She was born in England but has lived in Australia since 1971. Her books include Exiles at Home, Banjo and NSW Premier's Award winning Poppy, Sisters, which she co-edited, the Nita B.Kibble, NSW Premier's Award and Australian Bookseller's Book of the Year Award winner The Orchard, Timepieces and Secrets with Robert Dessaix and Amanda Lohrey. In 1999 Picador published one of the most anticipated books of that year, Stravinsky's Lunch. This exhilarating work addressing the dilemma of love and art won the 1999 NS Drusilla Modjeska (Author). See all formats and editions Hide other formats and editions. Price. "Devoted" by Dean Koontz For the first time in paperback, from Dean Koontz, the master of suspense, comes an epic thriller about a terrifying killer and the singular compassion it will take to defeat him. | Learn more. click to open popover.