

MEMORIAL FUNDS AND MEDALS

Morton Allport Memorial Fund (1879)

The sum of £200 was raised by special subscription as a memorial to Morton Allport, a generous donor of collections to the Museum and a contributor of numerous papers, who also took an active interest in the introduction of salmon and other trout. The income accruing from the Memorial Fund is applied to the purchase of scientific books.

R. M. Johnston Memorial Fund (1920)

The sum of £230 was subscribed as a memorial to R. M. Johnston, Government Statistician, a member of the Society from 1883 till his death in 1918, and a Member of the Council and Vice-President for many years. During that time he contributed 103 papers, the subjects embracing statistics, geology, botany, zoology, and palaeontology. He will be remembered not only by students of social and economic science, but also by those interested in Tasmanian geology.

The Memorial Fund provides for (1) Lecture, (2) Medal to be presented to the lecturer, and (3) Purchase of books.

Royal Society of Tasmania. 06 Sep 2015. The trout-food insects of tasmania. Part I.-a study of the genotype of the mayfly genus atalophlebia and its life history. By. The present paper is planned to be the first of a series to be written for the Royal Society of Tasmania, dealing with the Trout-food Insects of that State. As the Order Plectoptera, or Mayflies, is the most important order of insects considered as trout-food, I propose to deal with them first, leaving the other aquatic orders for later treatment. Description of a New Barometer, Recently Fixed up in the Apartments of the Royal Society; with Remarks on the Mode Hitherto Pursued at Various Periods, and an Account of That Which Is Now Adopted, for Correcting the Observed Height of the Mercury in the Society's Barometers. [Abstract] (pp. 1-3). From The Royal Society of Tasmania was founded on 14 October 1843 as the Botanical and Horticultural Society of Van Dieman's Land. Its first president was the Lieutenant-Governor of the Colony, Sir John Eardley Wilmot. On 12 September the following year Queen Victoria consented to becoming Patron of the Society, and the Society was named The Royal Society of Van Dieman's Land for Horticulture, Botany, and the Advancement of Science. It was the first 'Royal Society' formed outside Great Britain. The Royal Society of Tasmania supports the advancement of knowledge. Monthly meetings are held in both Hobart and Launceston. Annual volumes of papers are published, and it has libraries in Hobart and Launceston.
